

Hi Eric, I have to admit I've never really given this much thought. Our francophone citizens have always been an active part of our community for as long as I can remember. I believe the school was built in the early 90s. My feelings are that with the economic boom which Ignace is about to experience, our francophone community will be an incredible asset. As a member of council, if i am fortunate enough to be elected it would be one of my priorities to make sure our french speaking neighbours and friends are included every step of the way. This could include sitting on committees and taking part in events. Possibly even a newly created Francophone advisory committee that would keep these folks informed and engaged. This would ensure a solid stable sense of community for all. I would very much like to keep this conversation going after the election. Thank you Eric for bringing this issue to my attention:)
