

Ignace is a small community, and I believe one of our greatest strengths is that we know our neighbours, we look out for one another, and we work together. To me, our Francophone residents and families are an important part of that community.

I believe everyone in Ignace should feel welcomed, included, and heard. Our Francophone community should have the opportunity to participate fully in municipal life while continuing to celebrate the language, culture, and heritage that they bring to our community.

When it comes to providing municipal information in French, I believe in taking a practical approach and listening to the people who are directly affected. I would work with Francophone residents and organizations to better understand where the gaps are, what information is most important to have available in French, and where we can realistically make improvements.

For me, it comes down to listening, communicating, and making sure people feel included. Ignace is changing and growing, and as we move forward, I want our Francophone community to know that their voices matter and that they have a place in shaping the future of Ignace.

With gratitude
